Foreword

Another Iris season has rolled around and I find myself greeting it with the same happy anticipation that began some years ago with my first sight of a large field of irises in full bloom. Now that I am engaged in hybridizing I have more cause than ever to wait impatiently for each new bloom to open.

The happiest time of all is when I am able to share my pleasure in them with the garden visitors who make a yearly trip to see them. I am hoping that more of you will come this year than ever before for I have so many new varieties and my own 1936 class of seedlings to show you.

The limitation of space prevents the mention in the catalog of many additional varieties and species that we can supply.

If you wish to check names of varieties bring samples with you and compare to your heart's content.

I wish you all a very pleasant and successful gardening year.

BESS L. SHIPPY.
